

access by a node to the shared object (e.g., shared file c.exe in the shared Directoryl) that has the node-specific attribute causes a file system operation that is node-specific to be performed

